

In connection with the Swedish Arbitration Days, YAS and ICDR Y&I are pleased to cordially invite you to the traditional

Young Lawyers' Debate

Stockholm, 12 September 2012

We look forward to welcoming you to a lively debate on current issues in international arbitration followed by refreshments and canapés – a unique opportunity to network, exchange ideas and share experiences with fellow lawyers in an informal setting.

The debate, moderated by John Fellas, Hughes Hubbard & Reed, New York, and Patricia Shaughnessy, Stockholm University, will cover these questions:

- Should all members of an arbitral tribunal be appointed by an institution or other appointing authority, and not by the parties?
- Should it be permitted to use tribunal secretaries - disclosed or undisclosed - other than for purely administrative tasks such as booking conference rooms or mailing documents?

The international six-member panel of young lawyers is composed of Johannes Lundblad (Grönberg, Stockholm), Noradèle Radjai (Lalive, Geneva), Charles Nairac (White & Case, Paris), Markyian Kliuchkovskiy (EPAM, Kiev), Fredrik Ringquist (Mannheimer Swartling, Moscow) and Maria Elvung (in-house, ABB, Sweden).

Date/Time: 12 September 2012, 4pm-6pm, followed by refreshments and canapés

Venue: Näringslivets hus, Storgatan 19, Stockholm \(click for map\)

Cost: Thanks to the generosity of our sponsors, this event is free of charge. However, a no-show fee of Euro 50 may be charged.

Registration: Please register by email to Ms. Agneta Kling, Mannheimer Swartling, at akg@msa.se no later than 29 August 2012, stating your name, law firm/organisation and city.
